

Reconciliation and Statements

All right, I feel like busting out into the Europe song, Final Countdown, because there we go with the very last set of exercises that you're going to do to earn your certificate of completion.

Now, we're saying goodbye to the workbook, but we've got additional documents that are down below, because this is all about reconciliation and financial statement presentation. Make sure that you look at the instructions that are right below this video, as well as download all of the materials that you're going to need to complete this final section. And the next time that you see my mug, it's going to be congratulating you for earning your certificate of completion, so let's go get 'em tiger.
